Rate Calculations

Preamble:

NGTL submitted that “The elimination of usage credits will enable TransCanada PipeLines Limited to standardize its billing practices across its pipeline systems and will not result in changes to NGTL’s annual revenue requirement. However, this change will result in offsetting changes to rates for tariffed services in that the gross value for Firm Transportation – Receipt (FT-R) volumes will be used to calculate rates versus the current practice of calculating rates based on a value of FT-R net of fuel usage.”

Request:

Please provide a numerical example of how the Firm Transportation Rate calculation will be affected by the elimination of Usage Credits. This should clearly detail the current calculation and the proposed calculation as shown in the ‘Background’ section of the original resolution T2000-01(e) submitted to the Board attached to the letter dated October 12, 2001.

Response:

Please refer to the following rate calculation flow chart which details the current Firm Transportation Rate Calculation for 2004 Interim Rates approved by the Board in Decision 2003-105, and the proposed Firm Transportation Rate calculation which factors in the elimination of usage credits. All numbers that have changed as a result of the elimination of usage credits have been shown in bold.

Reference:

Customers Monthly Demand Charges

Preamble:

NGTL submitted that “The elimination of usage credits will enable TransCanada PipeLines Limited to standardize its billing practices across its pipeline systems and will not result in changes to NGTL’s annual revenue requirement. However, this change will result in offsetting changes to rates for tariffed services in that the gross value for Firm Transportation – Receipt (FT-R) volumes will be used to calculate rates versus the current practice of calculating rates based on a value of FT-R net of fuel usage.”

Request:

Will the elimination of Usage Credits require Customers to revise their Contract Demand volumes?

Response:

No.

Request:

Please provide a numerical example, using sample rates from Board request 1b), clearly showing how a customer’s Monthly Demand Charges will be affected by the elimination of Usage Credits and how that will be offset by changes to the rates for tariffed services.

Response:

Numerical examples, using the rates calculated in the response to information request BR-NGTL-001(b), showing the effect of eliminating usage credits on a customer’s monthly contract demand charges, are provided below.

Four different scenarios have been provided to illustrate the current and proposed billing practices. The first scenario illustrates the effect on the monthly demand charges for a customer who only holds FT-R contracts and flows 100% of its contract demand quantity (CDQ). In this scenario, the customer’s monthly contract demand charges will be slightly higher under the proposed billing practice.

The second scenario is similar to the first in that it illustrates the monthly demand charges for a customer which only holds FT-R contracts but does not flow any of its contract demand quantity during the month. In this scenario, the customer’s monthly contract demand charges will be slightly lower under the proposed billing practice.

BR-NGTL-002(c)

The third scenario illustrates the effect on the monthly demand charges for a customer which holds both FT-R and FT-D contracts and flows 100% of its contract demand quantity. In this scenario the customer's monthly contract demand charges will be slightly lower under the proposed billing practice.

The fourth scenario is similar to the third in that it illustrates the monthly demand charges for a customer which holds both FT-R and FT-D contracts but does not flow any of its contract demand quantity during the month. In this scenario the customer's monthly contract demand charges will be slightly lower under the proposed billing practice.

Overall, as outlined in the flow chart provided the response to Information Request BR-NGTL-001(a), the effect of eliminating usage credits results in a slight increase to total system contract demand and therefore results in a slight decrease to the average FT-R and FT-D rates. As shown by the following summary, customers' monthly contract demand charges are affected differently depending on the contract demand and utilization profiles during any given month. In total, however, the revenue generated will be the same under the current and proposed billing practices.
